Before, during, and after emergencies, information is critical to the community to help residents know what to do and how to find resources and receive necessary assistance for recovery.

Information messaging and methods for dissemination are crucial. The Comprehensive Language Analysis will study community demographics, spoken & written languages, dialects, and how the community best receive messages. The Police Department's Office of Emergency Services (OES) tries working with various community and faith-based organizations, etc to complete this information. Please take our survey today! Scan this QR Code.
